

Unit 1

A Journey Plan for a Trip to Great Britain.

We are going to Great Britain!

Anna and Bettina have been studying English for a long time. They are friends. They are participating in an English course in Munich, in South of Germany. Today it is the last lesson. The teacher says good-bye to the students.

In dialogue form:

Teacher: The course is over. You are excellent students. Your pronunciation is good. The grammar is excellent too; although you have had no specific grammar lessons. The studying is over. Where are you going on holiday?

Anna: We are planning to go to Great Britain.

Bettina: We will go for a sightseeing tour in London, make a trip to Stonehenge and afterwards, we will visit some small villages in the countryside.

Teacher: That is a good journey plan. When is your departure?

Bettina: Tomorrow.

Teacher: By bus, by train, by airplane or by car?

Anna: We don't know exactly, yet!

Teacher: In this case you should read unit 2 and unit 3 for more information! As the end has come, I'd like to give you an useful advice: Don't forget that in England the traffic is left-hand driven. Anyway, have a nice journey to Great Britain and I hope to see you again!

In written context:

Before departure

Our plan is ready. The suitcase and the bags are packed. I have taken some light clothes for the sea and for the city in it. For women: A scarf (shawl) and an elegant looking frock for the opera. For men: there is a dark coloured suit. There is a tourist guide for London and for the villages. We are taking some sandwiches and apples with us ... Alas! The diet. The opposite of left-hand is right-hand.
